The Women of Influence Series is a professional development initiative under the umbrella of the Business to Business (B2B) Council of CIANJ for men and women who currently hold leadership positions in their fields, or those who are aspiring leaders. It is a business exchange led by powerful women who have attained high profile status in their respective fields and areas of expertise. By sharing their journey these successful women illustrate how they arrived in positions of leadership, and they inspire and enlighten the participants as they describe their experience along the path to successful careers. The series will introduce the participants to other women who can serve as mentors and networking professionals. The sessions will broaden one's knowledge of different avenues of interest, provide personal interaction with highly successful women, and insight on how to achieve success in diverse fields through inspiration and encouragement on trade-offs and opportunities presented.
